

January 2012

About Jim Glanville

I am a retired chemistry professor living in Blacksburg, Virginia, with my wife, Deena Flinchum, a retired Information Technology professional and a native of Wytheville, Virginia. My professional career lasted from 1962-2004 and included jobs in the chemical industry and academia; I spent the last twenty years of my career at Virginia Tech.

Since retiring in 2004 I have made an encore career writing and publishing extensively about the history and archeology of Southwest Virginia and the region I have dubbed "Holstonia." Deena has made an encore career as a community volunteer.

A one-page "biog" with some of my linked publications is at <http://www.holstonia.net/files/JimGlanvilleInfo.pdf>.

A five-page "Publications and Presentations" list with all of my articles and most of my talks since 2004 plus a few selected older publications is at <http://www.holstonia.net/files/Publist.pdf>.